

The Great Migration into smaller Nations

when you are done protesting (another form of affirmation), demonstrating, making a noise, global rallying, throwing pebbles at the castle, signing petitions, filing lawsuits, hiring or admiring lawyers serving class actions on your behalf, praising new nuremberg trials without realizing the original was probably a setup by the same virus who controls the alleged viral outbreak you are trying to oppose right now, violating so-called constitutional or human rights, when you are exhausted, or perhaps just before, having exhausted all legal options, still fatally hoping to fight or change the system from within, wanting to save your country and every woman, man and child... when you are done copy/paste 1000's of posts about doctors, masks, vaccines, which promote fear and paranoia rather than education, having joined countless new groups and initiatives on the other side of the planet without knowing them...

when you come to your senses and realize all of the above won't change much in your village, town, hood, on the street or possibly even within your lifetime, no arab, european, asian or worldwide spring is going to make your or anyone's life better, on the contrary, it grants the oppressor to step up their game, increase and justify force or simply increase tariffs, fuel levies and food prices... the creatures behind and running the matrix could even quell an uprising of 6 billion and more, it'll be ugly, with losses on both sides, but they would come out on top again, they have prepared and made provisions much better than anyone of us... let them eat cake...

when you realize society is splitting 80/20 or 90/10, the cement is hardening and there is no convincing anyone any more, but knowing the 20 or 10% minority is a large enough contingent to continue and provide all goods & services for the non-mask wearing unvaccinated healthy people who want to carry on in new ways, breaking away from the statist hypnosis, thus declaring themselves to the world, correcting their status, establishing independent sovereign nations, alternative micro-economies, our own transport and communication networks, then the great migration is ready to grow wings and you are finally on the move towards freedom...

now is the time to isolate those people within each profession and inform them about the great migration, for we know there are plenty doctors, dentists, engineers, web developers, farmers, beekeepers, midwives, carpenters, pilots, solar technicians, fishermen and free people among us, they just don't know or are able to fathom how the future is going to look or work, a future of 100's or 1000's of independent tribes, nations, communities, neighbourhoods, enclaves or any other traditional stronghold wanting to self-govern and determine their own affairs; this is the only way to starve and deny the statist system of its energy, labour and support.

it's not an easy road, the path of the activist certainly ain't the path of least resistance, but ask yourselves, what do we have to lose ? everything, if we don't take a leap of faith soon, facilitating new forums, platforms and means of exchange... instead of designing placards for a fruitless protest outside faceless buildings, start drawing plans for (y)our new republics and nations, i.e. flags, passports, travel documents or anything required according to your customs and beliefs... be plenty, be colourful and let's cooperate like a mycelium network in the forest...

the great migration is to cancel all contracts with any state, deregister any property and/or anything else previously registered, i.e. yourself, children, home, car, boat, planes, companies, businesses, etc, then lawfully record them inside your independent sovereign nation of choice; here you will set up guilds for quality control, like friends watching and advising each other, no punitive measures and/or fines issued by a centralized government or its corporate agencies. In your nation you will determine how much is a fair contribution towards the maintenance of your society, no more taxman, middleman, agencies or useless broker, that alone will save you plenty, direct administration, possibly using modern technologies like the blockchain as long as electricity flows... nothing will stop us from rolling out our own power grids, internet and communication... we will make our own fuel too, have private airstrips up country and access our own port of entry if necessary...

everything is possible now, but stop wasting your time, let the vaccine roll out, let them control all major airports and airlines, let them wear masks forever and succumb to subservience, they are gone... not saying you cannot be friends with vaccinated people or those who fear the virus and government repercussions due to non-compliance, we the free people on earth don't have a problem with them, if they want citizenship and citizenship, we can tolerate them, but they and their overlords usually have an issue accepting our decision to opt out....

praise the 'virus' for pointing out the pioneers and shedding the sheep, truthfully,

jan a people of good hope

you can start the journey by visiting these websites :

>>> <https://www.republicofgoodhope.com> <<<

>>> <https://www.micronation.world> <<<

>>> <https://giftoftruth.wordpress.com> <<<